

National Day of Action
May 15 • 2019

Concerned about the health and safety of your children?
Please join us at noon on May 15th!

On Wednesday, May 15th, a group of your neighbors and other citizens from Maryland, Virginia and Washington D.C. will hold a peaceful sidewalk rally in front of the Verizon Store at 6932 Wisconsin Ave., Bethesda, MD. We are calling on wireless companies to voluntarily stop their deployment of small cell wireless microwave antennas in residential areas until their technology can be proven safe.

Background: Hundreds of scientific studies have shown that long-term exposure to wireless microwave radiation causes biological harm, overwhelming the body's biological, chemical and electrical systems, and creating an opportunity for serious medical issues ranging from neurological problems and cognitive deficits to cancer. Children are more vulnerable to these effects, as their physiology is still developing.

Our children have a right to play in their yards and sleep in their beds without being involuntarily exposed to constant microwave radiation that could harm their health, and we have an obligation to protect them.

To learn more about wireless radiation and its potential health impacts, please watch this important documentary film, available now on Netflix and Amazon, or visit <https://generationzapped.com/watch-the-film/>

All parents and their children are invited to join us in this peaceful rally to protect public health. We hope to see you there!
